

My name is Jamie Shaw. I have worked at The Winner School since September of 2000. I have worked with the Dino class (after school kindergarteners) since I started here and have loved every day of it. I have also been teaching early 3 preschool since September of 2008. I love having the little ones for their first school experience; I want to make them love coming to school. In my classrooms I provide a fun and safe learning environment, where a child feels loved and can explore freely. I love getting to know children and their families. I have been married to a loving husband, Jason, since June of 2003. I have two beautiful children, a step-daughter Alexis who loves to dance and a son, Kade, who attends The Winner School Karate Program. I love time going camping and playing board games with my family. I am currently working on the Utah Career Ladder Program for early childhood Education. I am a big kid at heart and I think that is what makes me a fun teacher. There is nothing like coming to work and getting hugs from children that love being in my class. I am looking forward to a great year!
